I'm back!!

Hello everyone,

I am officially back from maternity leave! You will notice a few changes with me being back... yes, I will have little Maitlynn with me. She is definitely a cute little addition to my office but I do ask a few things if you come to visit her.

Yes, you may come to visit her!

Yes, you may be able to hold her.... if she is in the mood and/or awake and please wash your hands before touching or holding her.

No, please do not kiss her. There are lots of germs out there (especially measles and covid) and she is still very little. I know it's really hard not to but please DO NOT KISS her!

Please also have some patience with me as I am going back to my old routine and remembering where I left off back in JANUARY! This week the hours that I am here may still be a little off as I still have to get my son from school (it's his last week this week so it's just temporary!)

Thank you to everyone who has kept us in their thoughts and prayers, who have taken the time to volunteer to cover hours in my office while I was gone, who have given us gifts, who have donated money to us, who have written cards... everything is very much appreciated and we cannot thank you enough!

–Sierra
